VARIANCE

Please note that Committee amended Part 4 above

That all of the rezoning applications received prior to the August 30, 2004 approval of the "Interim Strategy for Managing Townhouse and Single-Family Residential Rezoning Applications During the Review of the Lane Establishment and Arterial Road Redevelopment Policies" be processed prior to the completion of the new lane and arterial road redevelopment policies provided that they endeavour to comply with the staff recommendations regarding these policies.

Staff Report

Origin

On August 30, 2004, Council approved an Interim Strategy for Managing Townhouse and Single-Family Residential Rezoning Applications During the Review of the Lane Establishment and Arterial Road Redevelopment Policies.

As a result of this decision, a total of 27 rezoning applications that were submitted prior to August 30, 2004 were put on hold pending the finalization of the review of these policies.

These applications were at the following different stages:

- six (6) applications were referred by Council to staff prior to the August 23, 2004 Public Hearing;
- two (2) applications were referred back to staff at the August 24, 2004 Planning Committee;
- one (1) application had already been referred back to staff by Council at the July 19, 2004 Public Hearing because of neighbourhood concerns;
- three (3) applications were at the Staff Report stage but had not yet proceeded to Planning Committee;
- eleven (11) applications were in circulation with staff; and
- four (4) older applications were already being held up because of staff concerns regarding the proposed development.

The six (6) applications referred at the August, 2004 Public Hearing and the two (2) applications referred at the August, 2004 Planning Committee are discussed in this report for possible action in Attachments 1 - 8. All of the other applications will be dealt with in the future under separate Staff Reports (although the location map for each of these applications is included as Attachments 9 -27).

Under separate cover is a Staff Report outlining the recommendations arising from the block-by-block review of the Lane Establishment and Arterial Road Redevelopment Policies.

It is estimated that it will take several more months to implement these recommendations if they are supported by Planning Committee and Council (e.g. another Staff Report with the appropriate amendments to the Official Community Plan, Zoning & Development Bylaw and Single-Family Lot Size Policies; required first reading of the bylaws and Council resolutions; Public Hearing on the amendments; etc.).

In the meantime, staff have received pressure from the "in-stream" applicants to allow their applications to proceed.

The purpose of this report is to present the different options of dealing with these in-stream rezoning applications while the review of the Lane Establishment and Arterial Road Redevelopment Policies continues.

Findings Of Fact

Council has the following options with regard to these in-stream applications, each of which has different pros and cons.

1. That all of the "in-stream" applications continue to be held in abeyance and be required to comply with the new lane and arterial road redevelopment policies once they are officially adopted.

Pros:

- both in-stream applications and new developments will comply with the revised policies, resulting in a more consistent building product.
- all in-stream applications are treated the same with no exceptions.
- Council and the public do not have to accept a proposal that is not the preferred development option.

Cons:

- many in-stream applicants purchased their property and/or assumed that a certain form of development would be approved under the previous policies.
- it is unfair to retroactively apply a revised policy to in-stream applications.
- some applicants are willing to comply with the recommendations being proposed by staff and should not have to wait until the new policies are adopted.
- 2. That only the in-stream applications that were referred at the August, 2004 Public Hearing and Planning Committee meeting be processed provided that they endeavour to comply with the staff recommendations regarding the new lane and arterial road redevelopment policies.

Pros:

- allows those in-stream applications that were close to being approved to proceed.
- staff have worked with the applicants to try to come up with a proposal that complies with the new recommendations along arterial roads.
- enables these applicants to proceed with their development now rather than having to wait until the new policies are adopted.

Cons:

- the other in-stream applicants were "caught" by the Interim Strategy and have similar reasons for wanting to proceed (e.g. they may have purchased the property and are willing to comply with the proposed new policies).
- it will be perceived that Council is not treating all applications the same.
- some of the other applications were submitted prior to those which were referred at the August, 2004 Public Hearing or Planning Committee meeting.

3. That all of the in-stream applications be processed prior to the completion of the new lane and arterial road redevelopment policies provided that they endeavour to comply with the staff recommendations regarding these policies.

Pros:

- all in-stream applications are treated the same with no exceptions.
- those applications which need to be revised to comply with the staff recommendations can do so now and do not have to wait until the new policies are adopted.
- it indicates that staff and Council are willing to work with the development community to facilitate in-stream applications when policies change.

Cons:

- some applicants may want to proceed with their original proposal.
- it may be premature to negotiate changes to an application based on recommendations that have not been adopted.
- the public may find it confusing that certain applications are proceeding in advance of a new, adopted lane and arterial road redevelopment policy.

Analysis

Staff recommend that the Option 3 be approved by Planning Committee and Council for the following reasons:

- 1. This option is the most fair and equitable to the in-stream rezoning applicants.
- 2. Although the City could insist on the final preferred development scenario, staff are satisfied that by working with the applicants an acceptable form of development will be built.
- 3. It is agreed that in-stream applications can be treated differently than new applications that were received after the Interim Strategy was approved.
- 4. This option recognizes that in-stream applicants were "caught" by the policy change and gives them the opportunity to recover some of their investment.
- 5. Processing the in-stream applications takes some of the pressure off of having to adopt the new lane and arterial road redevelopment policies as soon as possible.
- 6. Allowing these in-stream applications to proceed will give staff and Council the opportunity to gauge the public response to the proposed new recommended policies.

Financial Impact

No financial impact to the City.

Conclusion

A total of 27 rezoning applications were put on hold when Council approved the Interim Strategy for Managing Townhouse and Single-Family Residential Rezoning Applications During the Review of the Lane Establishment and Arterial Road Redevelopment Policies. Staff have received pressure from some of these applicants to allow their applications to proceed. This report presents three (3) different options for handling these "in-stream" applications. It is recommended that all of these applications be processed prior to the completion of the review of the Lane Establishment and Arterial Road Redevelopment Policies provided that they endeavour to comply with the recommendations contained in a separate report regarding this review.
