Staff Report

Origin

At the February 27, 2006 Council meeting, Richmond City Council gave first reading to Development Cost Charges Bylaw No. 8024, Amendment Bylaw No. 8031, as well as first reading to the OCP Amendment Bylaw No. 8029 in respect of the West Cambie Area Plan update. As a result of subsequent meetings with the area residents and development industry, staff have reconsidered the development financing plan for the area, and believe that some of the area local roads should be shifted to the DCC program to be financed through a local area DCC Bylaw.

Analysis

Staff met with area residents and interested developers on March 9, 2006 to discuss the proposed new area plan for West Cambie, and the plan for financing the development in Alexandra. Attendance was fairly high and there were many concerns and issued raised and discussed. A summary of those concerns has been reported to Council by separate memo, along with the appropriate staff responses.

One of the issues that surfaced several times, from residents and developers alike, was the plan for financing the local roads. In particular, there appeared to be a number of inequities arising for property owners as a result of the City requiring developers to build frontage roads in accordance with the conditions of Richmond's Works and Services Bylaw. Normal City practice is to require developers to build frontage roads and utilities to local standard. In the case of the proposed West Cambie area plan, it was intended to continue with this practice; however, because servicing was necessary in some instances at greater than local standard, the excess cost over local standard was to be funded by a local area DCC Bylaw (i.e. Bylaw No. 8031), that would apply to all development in Alexandra.

With the current alignment of roads planned for the area, it is apparent that there a number of properties which will be required, in whole or significant part, as dedication for roads, with a consequent decrease in property value. This problem is particularly evident for properties adjacent to the roads than run north and south; for east/west roads, road dedication will, for the most part, consume only a small portion of individual properties.

One of the objectives established at the outset of developing the new West Cambie area plan was to treat property owners and developers as equitably as possible, within the constraints of the Local Government Act and the Community Charter. Requiring developers to build frontage roads in accordance with the Works and Services Bylaw does result in some inequities, particularly for property owners adjacent north/south roads. Staff believe that a reasonable alternative is to shift the north/south roads from Works and Services to the local area DCC Bylaw, thereby requiring all development to share in these costs. The cost of these roads, including land costs, has been estimated at $19,267,240 (see attached schedule "Alexandra Development Financing Tools").

It must be acknowledged that local standard servicing is not typically funded through DCC bylaws; Works and Services bylaws are used instead. The relevant legislation does not specify the levels or standards of services that can be funded by DCC bylaws; however, the provincial publication, DCC Best Practices Guide, does recommend that only arterial/collector standard roads and trunk utility services be funded by development cost charges. The proposed approach for funding the local roads has been discussed briefly with provincial officials, who must approve the DCC bylaw, and they are aware of our plans.

In as much as Bylaw No. 8031 has been give first reading by Council, in order to incorporate the costs of the north/south roads, it is necessary to abandon that bylaw and introduce a new bylaw for Council. The new bylaw is Development Cost Charges Bylaw No. 8024, Amendment Bylaw No. 8060; Bylaw No. 8060 is now intended to provide funding for an estimated $49,818,548 in servicing and land acquisition.

Financial Impact

As with all DCC bylaws, the City must provide some funding for development-related works and land acquisition, in accordance with provincial legislation. The term for this contribution is the assist factor. For many years, the assist factor established for DCC bylaws in Richmond has been 1 percent, and Bylaw No. 8060 assumes an assist factor of 1 percent. The shifting of the north/south roads to DCC Bylaw No. 8060 will require an increase in City funding of $192,672, for a total of $498,185 for all the works and acquisitions in the bylaw. Assist factor contributions are funded annually from City resources as projects are begun, as a part of the current financial plan.

Conclusion

There are a number of inequities arising for property owners in the proposed West Cambie area plan, as a result of the City requiring developers to build frontage roads in accordance with the conditions of Richmond's Works and Services Bylaw, particularly for property owners adjacent to planned north/south alignment roads. Staff believe that a reasonable alternative is to shift the north/south roads from Works and Services to the local area DCC Bylaw, thereby requiring all development to share in these costs. In order to incorporate the costs of the north/south roads, it is necessary to abandon DCC Bylaw No. 8031 and introduce Bylaw No. 8060 for readings.
