Staff Report

Origin

Permissive exemptions are provided to various types of properties in accordance with sections 339 to 341, inclusive, of the Local Government Act, and Council Policy 3561. Exemption bylaws must be adopted by October 31st of each year to be effective for the following year.

Analysis

Owners of properties eligible for statutory tax exemption were asked to complete a questionnaire confirming continued eligibility for tax exemption status in the coming year. All questionnaires have been reviewed and those properties meeting the eligibility criteria are listed in Bylaw No. 7590. Amendments to last year's bylaw are listed in Appendix I.

In our report to Council for the 2003 Property Tax Exemption, we listed a number of properties along No 5 Road where they were required to farm the property in order to obtain future tax exemptions. Staff conducted a site visit in mid June 2003 to all properties with a farming proposal on file and the result of the visit is itemized in Appendix II.

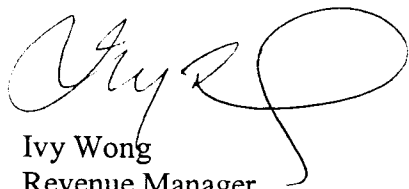

In most cases, organizations adhered to their proposed plans. One property, Richmond Jewish Day School on 8760 No 5 Road, did not plant fruit trees as previously indicated. Instead, they created a Grade 4 vegetable patch and incorporated the plant growth cycle into their school curriculum. Though, not as originally planned, the school is still meeting the farming requirement by growing vegetables. All properties inspected are included in Bylaw 7590 for the 2004 tax exemption.

Financial Impact

Property tax exemptions have an impact on City finances. Exemptions reduce the total assessed value of properties subject to taxation. Church properties represent the largest number of tax exempted properties and accounts for approximately $109,000 in direct municipal taxes in 2003. Other exempted properties on the tax exemption bylaw in 2003 accounted for approximately $1,285,000 in direct municipal taxes for a total of approximately $1,394,000. The City recovers these amounts through taxation on other properties.

Conclusion

Property tax exemptions are provided by Council in accordance with Section 339 to 341 of the Municipal Act and Council Policy 3561. Bylaw 7590 will provide tax exemptions in accordance with Provincial legislation and current Council guidelines
