Staff Report

Origin

In accordance with section 148 of the Local Government Act, the Chief Election Officer must officially report the election results to the local government.

Analysis

The election held on Saturday, November 15th, 2008, was the seventh election using the automated vote counting system. Again, voter satisfaction with the system was very high and the vote counting machines performed very well from a technical standpoint.

The most significant advantage of using automated vote counting machines is that the machines detect over-voted (spoiled) ballots and thereby provide the voter with the opportunity to check their ballot and to obtain a replacement ballot if they have inadvertently spoiled it. In an election where ballots are manually counted after the close of voting, inadvertently spoiled ballots would have to be set aside and those voters would never know that their ballots were not counted. During Richmond's recent election, 988 ballots were spoiled during the course of voting and, fortunately, because of the automated vote counting machines, all of those voters were able to obtain a replacement ballot so that their votes would be counted. The most common cause of spoiled ballots was inadvertent over-voting in one category.

The use of the automated vote counting system also allows the election results to be rapidly compiled following the close of voting. This year, all results were received and reported live to the City's website by 8:50 pm on election night.

Attached are the overall results, together with the "poll by poll" breakdown for each candidate for each office (Attachment 1). Noted below in the table are the voter statistics for 2008 along with the figures from the last number of elections.

Year	Number of Ballots Cast	Number of Registered Electors	Voter Turn-out as a Percentage
2008	27,709	125,378	22.1%
2005	30,051	116,892	25.7%
2002	26,528	79,120	33.6%
2001 (By-election)	23,727	73,980	32.1%
1999	22,602	69,694	32.5%
1996	20,730	71,589	29.4%

In 2008, legislative changes eliminated the requirement for voters to make a declaration in writing as to why they were voting at an advance voting opportunity. Instead, any eligible voter is now permitted to vote in advance. This lifting of restrictions was remarked upon often by electors during this year's advance voting and was likely a factor in the higher turnout over the five days of advance voting at City Hall. 2,942 people voted at the advance voting in 2008 as compared to 1,814 people at the advance voting in 2005.

Also in 2008, the eligibility for mail-in ballots was expanded in law to include people who were away from the municipality on election day and on all days of advance voting. Previously, mail-in ballot eligibility was limited to eligible voters who were mobility impaired and physically unable to attend a voting place. In total 84 mail-in ballots were issued both locally and outside of Richmond.

Financial Impact

None.

Conclusion

In accordance with the requirements of the Local Government Act, the official results of the Richmond 2008 General Local and School Election are hereby submitted to Richmond City Council. A report of the official results has also been forwarded to the Board of Education (Richmond).
